Radio24 Visits the Swiss School in Singapore

When Swiss radio station Radio24 came to Singapore in September, our school was honoured to be included in the station's morning show 'Ufsteller'. The programme aimed to bring our Asian metropolis closer to listeners in Switzerland.

FROM SINGAPORE TO SWITZERLAND ACROSS THE AIRWAVES

On 26 September 2018, teacher Ms Karin Muntwyler and students Megan Schueffel and Louis Boenders went on air 'live' with reporters Nina Roost and Dominik Widmer. During the broadcast, they were asked about their lives here in the Lion City, the difference between living in the two countries, and what they miss the most about home.

To everyone's surprise, it was Ms Muntwyler who was the most homesick of the three interviewees. Louis, who is already in his fourth year here in Singapore, is already a 'veteran' expat and said he has adapted easily.

HANDS-ON EXPERIENCE

At the end of the interview, Megan and Louis had the chance to try their hands and voices at being radio presenters. Louis reported about the weather in Zurich while Megan informed listeners about the traffic conditions.

Radio24 is from Zurich and has a listenership of about 330,000. It is the oldest private radio station in Switzerland.
